Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4, 6-9, 11-13, 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Hall (1020645). Hall discloses a support assembly for receiving and maintaining one or more section of an above ground structure at upright position. The support assembly comprises:

1. a base member 18 of a predetermined diameter
 - a. a predetermined diameter
 - b. a planar top
 - c. the base member may be or is capable of being positioned below ground
 - d. the top surface disposed in a horizontal position
 - e. the base member including a protrusion 14 connected to the top surface and extending upwardly in a vertical direction
 - f. the shape of the base has been considered a matter of choice; one of ordinary skill in the art would have made the base of any configuration which will provide the intended function and purpose of the same
2. a plurality of ancillary members 5 having a plurality of engageable top and bottom end portions defining conical engaging and receiving portion 14 and 15, respectively so that the height of the assembly can be adjusted as desired

3. one of the plurality of ancillary members being positionable onto to the base member and for receiving another said plurality of ancillary members. See figure 2
4. a top member selectively engageable with the plurality of ancillary members and being spaced from the base member
5. the to end portion having a slot formed therein and for receiving a section of an above ground structure, such as a pier, so that the same may be maintained in position
6. the base, top and ancillary members is made of concrete.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5, 10, 14(is/are) rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over by Hall in view of McCoy (5560171). McCoy shows stackable construction blocks with a top member having an outer surface and a centrally disposed longitudinal axis: the slot having a square first portion 18 positioned about the axis and further having a rectangular portion 20 integral with the first portion extending outwardly therefrom towards said outer surface of the top member allowing fluids to drain away from the slot. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to modify Hall to include the top member with the rectangular and square portion to allow for drainage as shown by McCoy et al.
